

STORIES CONFLICT IN ARCHBOLD CASE

EVIDENCE OF E. J. WILLIAMS IS CONTRADICTED BY ANOTHER
WITNESS.

Committee Will Resume Hearing
Monday—W. P. Boland Who Brought Charges Will Be Called to Give Testimony.

Washington, May 11.—John Henry Jones of Scranton, Pa., promoter, denied today before the judicial committee investigating charges of misconduct against Judge Robert W. Archbald, of the commerce court the testimony of Edward J. Williams that the jurist had given Jones a note for $500 for a share in an option on Venezuelan timber lands.

Jones declared that the $500 note was endorsed by Judge Archbald "out of the fullness of his heart" to help him to promote the deal that the jurist had had an interest in the operation and that he made the judge a present of $250 later out of a $500 commission he made in the sale of the culm bank. Jones said he gave Judge Archbald half of his commission because he had favored him in endorsing the note which figures in the testimony as the note which W. P. Boland and his brother, who brought the charges against the judge, refused to discount.

Much other conflicting testimony was given during the day, Edward J. Williams contradicting himself several times and making the record so confused that he is to be recalled next week.

The committee will resume the hearing next Monday when W. P. Boland will take the stand.

The committee today called upon W. A. May, a prominent member of the Erie railroad coal properties, to produce all correspondence in his possession bearing on the negotiations made by the Williams company.

"Were there any unnecessary delays in getting information about the charges to the president?" asked Representative Graham, of Illinois, of Interstate Commerce Commissioner Meyer to day during the hearing.

"There was not," was the reply. "When Boland came to you with the charges," asked Representative Sterling of Illinois, "did he say anything about his own case before the commission?"

"No."

Charles W. Gunster, cashier of the Merchants and Mechanics bank of Scranton, testified as to the refusal of his bank to discount the $500 note of Judge Archbald to John Henry Jones. Asked why he did not discount the note, Gunster replied:

"I did not care to discount it."

G. H. Von Storch, president of the Providence National bank of Scranton, testified that the original $500 note was taken by his bank in December, 1904. He said he called upon Judge Archbald about it. The judge told him that the note was all right. The note had been renewed every three months since December, 1904. Mr. Von Storch said:

"Von Storch testified that he believed the note to be in Judge Archbald's hand writing."

Mr. Von Storch told of a suit involving $10,000 against himself which was tried in Judge Archbald's court. This, he said, was settled favorably to him before the Archbald note was accepted by his bank.

John Henry Jones, who was on Judge Archbald's $500 note in the Venezuelan timber land option transaction, had been acquainted with Judge Archbald seven or eight years, and had frequently done favors for him. He said he went to Judge Archbald to interest him in the Venezuelan project, and had talked to him frequently about it.

"Why was it you made the note to Judge Archbald?"

"Because I thought was the sure way to get the note discounted," said Jones.

The witness told of negotiating for Culm bank property at Pittston, Pa., last March, in this transaction Jones said he agreed to give Judge Archbald $250 for favors he had extended him.

"What favors?"

"Well, for one thing, he had given me that note in the Venezuelan deal."

"I thought that was given for an interest in the timber option," suggested Mr. Webb.

"No, he did not," said Jones, "he gave me that note as a favor."

"Well, did you put through the Culm deal and give the judge his share of the profits?"

"Yes, I gave him $250, and I got $250. I had agreed to divide the 'promoters' profits with him."

"Did he help you sell it?"

"No, he did not; he had no faith in it," said Jones.

"Did Judge Archbald protest when you gave him the money?"

"No, he did not."

"Didn't you have some other friends to whom it would not have been as embarrassing to go on the note, as it was to a judge of the federal court?" Representative Norris asked.

"No I did not, and I had thought of the matter as being embarrassing."

The committee was to have subpoenaed W. J. Richards and Fred Warnke of Scranton, who were interested in the Culm deal described by Jones.

A recess was taken until Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

BATTLE RAGES IN MEXICO

GENERAL OROZCO WITH 7,000
FOLLOWERS FACES FEDERAL TROOPS.

Success of Present Uprising Depends
Largely on Result of This Battle—
Gomez Abductees Provisional
Presidency and Flees.

Juarez, Mexico, May 11.—General Orozco to night holds the balance of power in the Mexican revolution. General Orozco with 7,000 men, is face to face with the federal army that is pressing him back toward the border and the outcome of the battle is uncertain. The developments of the day, chiefly the abduction by Emilio Vasquez Gomez of the provisional presidency which he assumed a week ago, indicate that the money interests behind Mexico's present disturbances must continue to court Orozco. He fled for his life to day to United States territory.

He was located to night in an El Paso boarding house, but declined to make any statement.

Of the battle on the desert plains, 400 miles south of here. Few details are at hand. Orozco has declined to allow correspondents to proceed further than Escalon.

Below Escalon, 26 miles southward, the battle raged. The rebels are many miles behind their positions of a few days ago. Rebel sympathizers say this is but a ruse to draw the government troops away from their fortifications. Upon the outcome of the battle depends largely the success of the present revolution.

"Should Meet at Daybreak."

At the Rebel Frontier, near Conchos, May 11, 10 p. m.—Five thousand rebel troops advanced southward here to night, skirmishing as they proceeded. They should encounter the main body of the federal forces at day break.

San Antonio, Texas, May 11.—Emilio Vasquez Gomez returned to San Antonio late to night.

In St. Louis Roosevelt is running 3 to 1 over Taft in the early counting. Returns from twelve precincts in Duluth and on the Iron Range give Roosevelt 842; unreturned (Taft), 301.

Object to Piece Work
System.

Under the tonnage system the men will get 24 cents a ton, whereas they now receive $1.81 a day.

The situation here was unchanged to day. The railroads claim that they have a large force of non-union men at work.

The statement by Nesbitt's counsel that on next Monday they would apply for a writ of habeas corpus for him moved the local federal and Canadian authorities to rapid action. A warrant for his extradition was received from the state department at Washington yesterday.

To day he was turned over to A. C. Boyd of the Toronto police and taken to a train for Toronto.

The former banker protested vehemently but his requests that he be permitted to interview his attorneys were denied.

WORTH WON IN KENTUCKY DERBY

Three Year Old Lashed Just Long Enough to Carry Off Honor in Opening Event at Churchill
Downs.

Louisville, May 11.—Worth away in front and never behind lasted just enough to win the Kentucky Derby at the opening of the spring meet at Churchill Downs today. The great Hallenbeck 3 year old kept ahead of the contenders, each of whom a second at some time in the race and a quarter round, and won from Duval in the last jump. Had the race been ten yards longer the odds-on favorite would have lost for he was tiring fast at the wire and Duval was coming with a rush. Flamma, after racing badly at the post and getting away last, closed a big gap and finished third. The time was 2:09 2-5, 4-2-5 seconds slower than the track record for this event, which was made one year ago by Meridian.

The race was run on a sloppy track and in a drizzle. The combination of many rain showers that day could not go to the distance, and especially on a sloppy track, did not deter the public from making him the big favorite. $2 mutuels pay only $3.60 to win. Duval was not considered an important factor.

Coming into the stretch Worth was pressed by Duval two lengths behind and Flamma a length behind Duval. Jockey Shilling, on Worth, drew up his whip, seeing the race was coming. Duval was coming. Duval gained at every bound, but the horses came under the wire Worth a neck to the good and Flamma by two lengths behind.

Worth seemed to be pretty much all in when Shilling brought him back before the judge.

The winner is out of Miss Hanover by Knight of the Thistle, and is owned by H. C. Hallenbeck. As a 2 year old he was one of the best winners of his class.

FAVORITE WON.

Louisville, Ky., May 11.—Worth, the favorite, galloped home winner of the thirty-eighth Kentucky derby today. The classic was contested over a slow track. The time was 2:09 2-5. Meridian victor in the derby of 1911, set a record of 2:05 1-2.

NEW HEAD REIGNS NOW AT PRINCETON

JOHN GRIER HIBBEN IS INAUGURATED FOURTEENTH PRESIDENT.

President Taft and Chief Justice White Had Part in Ceremonies—New President Made Address on "Essentials of a Liberal Education."

Princeton, N. J., May 11.—Under the tall elm trees on the historic campus, John Grier Hibben was to day inaugurated the fourteenth president of Princeton university. President Taft and Chief Justice White were in attendance.

The oath of office was administered by Associate Justice Mahlon Pitney of the supreme court of the United States. A part of the ceremony was the conferring of honorary degree of doctor of laws upon President Taft and Chief Justice White.

Princeton alumni and representatives of other universities crowded the gymnasium for the alumni luncheon after the inauguration ceremony. President Taft was the first speaker.

Among his remarks he said:

"I have been in the habit, in times of trouble in the white house, of looking back to the troubles of Washington and Jefferson, Madison and Lincoln, and Cleveland, and to minimize my own troubles by what they had to go through. But I am getting to a point where that comparison is not helpful."

Princeton, New Jersey, May 11.—"It is a man for the day's work, but at the same time equip him to meet the crisis and the emergency which the day's work will inevitably bring forth. He who has laid a broad and secure foundation will find no difficulty in erecting the superstructure. Whatever he builds he will be able to build himself into the work of his land and people. Make a man and he will find his work."

Thus did John Grier Hibben announce his views on higher education in his inaugural address to day as president of Princeton university. President Hibben spoke to the topic: "The Essentials of a Liberal Education." His address, in part, follows:

"We hear much to day of the conservation of our national resources. Our forests, the treasures of our past, and the vast material wealth of our land. But while we are emphasizing the necessity of a national economy, we should not overlook the fact that the task of conserving and of developing the resources of the intellectual, moral and spiritual power in our nation is the one supreme task. To conserve these powers, to cause them to develop and to prevail, to deliver free spirit from the bondage of ignorance and of material impulse, from the bondage of authority, of tradition, of public opinion, of passing fashion and of prejudice, and to direct these liberated human forces to the highest ends, that is the art of education."

"In Princeton we believe that it is absolutely necessary to have a certain schooling in preparation for the responsibilities of freedom and that the best and wisest choice of an immature mind in new and strange surroundings forms a poor propaedeutic to the serious tasks of free investigation, of original thought and of practical efficiency. We believe, moreover, that the best preparation for the freedom of the life of reason is that group of studies whose very nature tends to the training of the powers of the mind in developing in a man both capability and resource, and at the same time giving him a knowledge of himself and of the world in which he lives."

"It is a man for the day's work, but at the same time equip him to meet the crisis and the emergency which the day's work will inevitably bring forth. He who has laid a broad and secure foundation will find no difficulty in erecting the superstructure. Whatever he builds he will be able to build himself into the work of his land and people. Make a man and he will find his work."

"The results which by the four years of training we hope and expect to produce I would characterize in a single sentence. It is a transformation of the schoolboy into a man of the world—a man who can move more freely and familiarly in the midst of the world's varied activities and who speaks its language, who is conversant with its manners, and who can interpret its thought."

JURY ACQUITTED MRS. JAMES.

Story of Desire to Delay.

Washington, May 11.—An agreement has been reached by the majority and minority members of the special committee investigating the election of Senator Lorimer of Illinois to file their reports in the senate May 20. Senator Lea of Tennessee, who made the announcement in the senate to day said the committee had agreed that a vote be taken during this session.

Senator Lea said that a joint request from the two sides of the controversy would be present when the reports were filed for fixing a day during the session for a vote.

It is believed that the vote will be taken early in June.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Mr. and Mrs. "Fraud" Leach Thrown
From Buggy and Dragged Long
Distance as Result of Encounter
With Telephone Wire.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. "Fraud" Leach, who reside three miles west of the city, had a narrow escape from death Saturday night, while they were returning home in a buggy. They ran into a telephone guide wire, which threw the occupants out and they were dragged thirty feet before the horse got loose from the vehicle and ran home.

The accident happened about 10:15 o'clock in front of the residence of Mrs. Emma Smith, who lives about 2 1/2 miles out of the city. The double wire running across the road, which is used for a guide in laying two telephone poles, has been low for some time. During the storm of last night the wire lowered just enough to catch the top of a rig.

Mr. and Mrs. Leach were driving in a closed buggy and the night being dark, were not making very fast time. The accident happened so suddenly that before the occupants knew what was about, the top of the buggy was torn off and they were being dragged through the mud at a lively clip. After going a distance of thirty or forty feet, the horse succeeded in breaking the single tree and after turning the buggy on its side, freed itself and ran home. Mr. and Mrs. Leach do not know just how they were thrown out of the rig, but the jar broke the glass, which, to delay hands quite severely.

Mr. Leach received a number of gashes about the face, besides both were ground in the mud.

John Stewart, who resides in that community, took his neighbors home, and although suffering greatly from the shock and from the bruises received, they were congratulating themselves that they escaped with their lives.

WRITES OF TOMLINSON'S FITS.

M. Tomlinson recently had an advertisement in the Journal to the effect that he has "fits" in straw hats. The advertisement attracted the attention of the "Line-O-Type or Two" editor on the Chicago Tribune and that was said in his column:

"Mr. Tomlinson of Jacksonville, Ill., advertises that he has fits in straw hats. Why does he wear them?"

Yesterday Mr. Tomlinson received a letter from the advertising department of the well known house of Hart, Schaffner & Marx, calling his attention to the Tribune's mention of his "fits" and suggesting that it would be a good idea to explain to the public that the "fit" a man has in a Tomlinson straw hat is a fit of joy, pride and satisfaction. Mr. Tomlinson thinks he is getting before a very big field of readers when the superlatives. Whatever he builds he will be able to build himself into the work of his land and people. NO DECISION GIVEN IN FIGHT

WOLGAST AND RITCHIE HAVE FOUR ROUND CONTEST.

Champion Forced to Extend Himself to Get Newspaper Draw in His Bout at San Francisco Yesterday Afternoon.

San Francisco, May 11.—Ad Wolgast was forced to extend himself to the limit to get a newspaper draw in his fourth round bout with Ritchie Ritchie here to day. For two rounds he kept the champion on the defensive.

The champion was staggered in the second round by a long range stab to the chin, but recovered quickly. Ritchie took the count twice in the third, although he came back strong and carried the fight to Wolgast in the fourth, when the latter was bleeding profusely from cuts on the face and mouth. The general opinion of the fight fans seems to be that Wolgast had failed to extend himself or that he has gone back somewhat as a result of his operation. Six four round bouts between fighters of all weights preceded the Wolgast-Ritchie bout. The attendance was light.

The air was fog laden and a chilly wind was blowing across the arena. Wolgast and Ritchie weighed in at noon and both were easily under weight. The fighters arrived early at the arena, Wolgast occupying a spectators' box during the preliminaries.

Fight by Rounds.

Round 1. The fight opened with light sparring and then Wolgast quickly ripped left and right to the face. The pace quickened with the champion lunging out vigorously with left and right, several of which landed. Some close fighting followed and Ritchie lifted the champion in the air with his knee. Ritchie suddenly shot a powerful left straight to the jaw and the champion tottered against the ropes. Wolgast, maddened at this unexpected turn, waded in, fighting fiercely and was also taken until the end of the round. Wolgast's blows seemed badly timed in this round, Ritchie having the advantage.

Round 2. They clinched with Wolgast driving left to body a moment later swung a terrific right to the jaw, staggering Ritchie. Wolgast's opponent came back with two wicked short arm blows to the jaw. Ritchie followed with a lashing right punch to the jaw and Wolgast appeared groggy. The crowd was on its feet in a trifle apiece. Ritchie again staggered Wolgast with a succession of right and left wallops to the face and hammered Wolgast. It was all Ritchie's round.

Round 3. They went at it fiercely at close range. The crowd yelled to Ritchie to be careful. He responded with a straight left to the jaw and followed with right and left to the face.

The delegates from Post O. T. P. A., returned last night from the state convention at Danville jubilant over securing the election of Charles F. Ehne state president. The contest was the hardest fought in many years and the result is the more gratifying for that reason. Mr. Ehne's principal claim for the presidency was that he had personally secured more new members for the order than any other man during the past five years, having written 297 new members in that time and has aided in the securing of 874 additional members in connection with his office of state organizer. It is to be regretted that the state convention for 1913 could not be secured for Jacksonville, but it was impossible to get both the presi-

FLOOD SITUATION.

New Orleans, La., May 11.—A day of sunshine, followed by a cloudless sky to night gave hope to the army of levee protectors except at Baton Rouge, where the situation still is considered critical.

In New Orleans the excessive rainfall of last night taxed the city drainage system beyond the capacity and to night the upper residential section is flooded with water to a depth of four to twenty inches. Five miles above the city a serious blow-out occurred on the land side of the levee near Schillers, but within half an hour the caving of the embankment had been stopped.

ENDED IN TIE.

New Haven, Conn., May 11.—The annual track meet between Yale and Princeton ended in a tie here to day, 58½ to 58½ points. Not until the last event had been concluded was the final result determined.

Princeton scored heavily in the dashes, and mile run and led Yale by a comfortable margin until the last event, the broad jump.

THE CRAWFORD LUMBER CO.

BRAKEMAN INJURED

Harry W. Gill, an Employee of the C. P. & St. L. Railroad, Suffers Smashed Foot.

Harry W. Gill of Elsah, Ill., a brakeman in the employ of the C. P. & St. L. railroad, had his foot severely smashed Saturday morning while doing some switching in the yards at the car shops. Gill was attempting to step on the pilot of an engine, when he missed his footing, the small pilot wheel passing over the member.

Gill was working on freight train No. 27 southbound, and the train was heading in on the switch at the car shops. He had opened the switch and was standing on the track waiting for the engine to approach. As he started to step on the pilot in some unknown way he missed the step and his foot slid under the pilot. Before he could jerk it away the pilot wheel had passed over the member, crushing the lower part of the foot severely. He was taken to Passavant hospital where Dr. C. E. Black dressed the injury. It was found necessary to amputate the third toe of his right foot. The shoe saved the foot from greater injury. It will be some time before the injured man can be out. Mr. Gill is 22 years of age and has only been in the employ of the company for a comparatively short time.

WAS WELL KNOWN HERE.

James W. Evans, who passed away recently at the home of his son, Charles A. Evans in White Hall, was well known in Jacksonville and Morgan county, having resided north of Franklin for several years. When Mr. Evans was 6 years of age the family moved to Morgan county from Ohio and settled north of Franklin, where they remained until shortly before the outbreak of the civil war, when they removed to Waverly. When Lincoln made his last call for troops Mr. Evans enlisted in Co. D, 51st Ill. vol. inf., in this city. After the war he returned to Waverly and shortly afterward he moved to White Hall. He is survived by his wife and four children.

DENIES SHOOTING FIRST.

Floyd Allen Testifies He Was Wounded Before He Drew a Revolver.

Wytheville, Va., May 11.—Floyd Allen, on trial here for the murder of Prosecutor William M. Foster in the Hillsville court house, last March, went on the witness stand to day. He said that he was wounded before he drew his revolver. Allen stoutly denied that he shot at any one inside the court building, except Deputy Sheriff Queenberry, who fired the shot, which brought him down.

It is expected the case will be placed in the jury's hands by Monday night.

PROHIBITS RED FLAGS.

Superintendent of Police Issues Order for Socialist Parade at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 11.—Superintendent of Police Martin Hyland issued orders that red flags could not be carried tomorrow night in connection with the National Socialist convention, which opens here tomorrow morning. Superintendent Hyland said the display of red flags might incite riots.

Congressman Victor L. Berger of Milwaukee, chairman of the Socialists National executive committee, who told of the order, said: "Hyland is a fool. There will be no rioting in any case unless the police strat it. Socialists are peaceful. We do not start riots."

Congressman Berger said he would see Supt. Hyland and Mayor Shank in regard to the police order. The executive committee to day transacted only routine business in connection with the holding of the convention.

A Great Big Special Galvanic Soap Sale

Boxes of 100 Bars at $3.50

A Price Less Than the Jobbers are Paying

Beginning Monday (wash day), we offer a genuine soap bargain, a 100 bar box of the widely known and famous Johnson's Galvanic brand at $3.50. We received a big shipment of this soap and at the price we are offering could sell the whole lot to jobbers and save them money. But we bought this soap for our customers and theirs is the buying chance.

If you don't know all about Johnson's Galvanic soap, what wonderful cleaning qualities it has, how easy it makes wash day, then read the following facts. After you have read, then remember to give us a soap order and you will get soap satisfaction and save money.

Directions for Using Galvanic Soap

For General Washing—Dampen the clothes in lukewarm water and rub over with soap, particularly the soiled parts. Roll the various pieces up and let them soak from 40 to 60 minutes, or better over night, in cold or lukewarm water (not hot). Or if clothes are not so soiled, and you prefer, cut one-half cake Galvanic into thin shavings and dissolve in one gallon of hot water, then pour into four gallons of warm water and put in as many clothes as water will cover.

By either method the dirt, which is thoroughly loosened, will be readily removed by rubbing between the hands or lightly on the wash board. When the clothes have been thoroughly rinsed and dried you will marvel at their whiteness. No heat, No steam. You will have saved your cloths, time, labor and fuel.

If you prefer to use Galvanic in washing machine, by boiling the clothes, or any method, you will find that it will accomplish twice the results of an ordinary soap.

To Wash Woollens—Galvanic will wash woollens without shrinking by the above methods. You must observe the following precautions. Never have the temperature of the water above blood heat. Never rub flannels on the washboard. Never iron them with a hot iron. Never freeze and never wash and rinse in water that has been used for other purposes. When Woollens are rinsed and drying, it is advisable to frequently pull and smooth them out.

To Clean Carpets or Remove Spots—Dissolve shavings of Galvanic in lukewarm or cold water, scrub the portion to be cleaned with brush until a good lather appears. Leave for a few minutes and then rinse off with clear water and woolen cloth or sponge.

To Remove Grease Spots and Stains From Clothing—Rub thoroughly with soap lather, leave a few moments and rinse off with clear water.

To Clean Cushioned Furniture, Etc.—Apply suds with woolen cloth and after a few minutes rinse with clear water and clean woolen cloth.

To Wash Silk Draperies, Laces, Curtains, Etc.—Thoroughly saturate the goods in Galvanic suds, gently rubbing them with the hands and rinse in clean water.

For Cleaning Hats, Wool or Straw—See directions for cleaning cushioned furniture.

For General Housework—Galvanic is almost indispensable. Use as you would other soap, only less of it. There is nothing its equal for cleaning bath tubs. In the kitchen it makes the floors white and brightens the paint. It will give a wonderful lustre to dishes and glassware.

Other Uses—To clean cane-seated and willow chairs see directions for carpets. For jewelry, statuary, harness, etc., use hot suds and sponge. There is nothing better for washing dogs, cleaning sores on horses and other animals than Galvanic Soap.

FLIRTING PRINCESS

MONDAY NIGHT.
Dances, swaying with the rhythm of pure joy, melodies tingling the ear with delightful cadences, and a cast of principals that should all be features, tells the story of "The Flirting Princess," in which Harry Bulger is starring under the management of Mort H. Slinger, and which comes to the Grand next Monday night.
And we must not forget the chorus! Never before has such a delightful, airy, filmy bunch of femininity taken to the road. Where Mr. Slinger rounded them all up will always remain a mystery. In fact, taking all in all, "The Flirting Princess" is one of the best musical productions on tour.

JACKSONVILLE SCHOOL AFFAIRS.

The schools of Jacksonville cost a lot of money but there is a general feeling among the people who have children in the schools that they are worth the cost. Friday night the board of education appointed seventy-seven teachers and twelve persons in other capacities and to pay these appointees and the superintendent means a monthly pay roll of about $6500. Multiply that amount by nine and you'll find that for the school year the total salaries amounts to about $58,000. Then there are expenses for fuel, light, insurance, repairs and miscellaneous things which run up to several thousand more. For the past two years $20,000 has been levied yearly for the building fund with the end in view of erecting an eighth grade building on the lots north of the high school building which were purchased for that purpose.

The superintendent of the Jacksonville schools gets a salary of $2200 a year. The principal of the high school gets a $2,000 salary and teachers in the high school are paid from $900 to $1100 a year. The principal of the eighth grade has a salary of $100 a month and the same is true of the principals of the several ward schools except at the Morton school, where the salary is $80. Teachers in the eighth grade are paid $70 a month and teachers in the other grades from $50 to $60, depending upon experience and efficiency.

It is an interesting fact to note that many teachers in the county schools are now paid $75 a month and some of them even more. School directors have found that it is necessary to pay more money than used to be the rule in order to get good teachers and keep them. Many teachers when they accept a country school insist on a larger salary than they would be willing to take in a city school because they figure that they will have added expense for railroad fare and if their homes are in the city, could live more cheaply there. Salaries for teachers in the Jacksonville schools are on a par with other cities, but it is true nevertheless that a number of Morgan county teachers are paid more.

At the meeting of the board of education Friday night the new teachers named were Truman P. Carter, Misses Katherine Cline, Mary Chas. B. Harriet Shaw and L. C. Melick. Miss Elizabeth Hiler was transferred to the Morton school, taking the place of Miss Melick. Miss Withee goes to the school made in place of Mrs. L. A. Caldwell. Mr. Carter will take Miss Brown's work in the school.

Miss Brown's work in the school was mentioned when Miss Melick was named assistant teacher of home economics. Mr. Brown objected, saying that it was not wise to choose an assistant before the proposed new building had been erected and further that he thought he saw a scheme to supplant Miss Brown. Other members of the board made no reply at the time of yesterday's meeting. It is the intention of the board to place Miss Brown in the new building as very highly pleased with her work and said that under her guidance the department has been brought to a high state of efficiency. The fact is Miss Brown is very highly esteemed personally and for her work by all of the board members.

It is the intention of the board of education to ask for bids for the erection of an eighth grade building within a few weeks and plans are now being drawn for the proposed building. When completed it will provide accommodations for seventh and eighth grade pupils. It will be three stories high above the basement and will be heated from the plant in the high school building. There will be a gymnasium which will probably be the assembly room also and the remainder of the building will be divided into recitation rooms. There will be no laboratories as those in the high school will be sufficient for both buildings. When the new building is completed a congested condition at the high school will be relieved and it will be possible to vacate a room in each of the ward buildings for other purposes.

The season's sandal chance at Reaugh's, children 35, 45, 55 and 65; women's 80 cents.

MISSOURI WON MEET.

Columbia, Mo., May 11.—Missouri won the thirtieth annual dual track meet from Kansas this afternoon 76 to 33. Missouri has won eleven of the dual meets. The field was muddy and during the greater part of the time a driving rain fell.

The Mystery of Bird Flight.

A curious fact concerning birds is that the tip of the wing moves at practically the same speed in every species. This is 650 feet per minute or nearly seven and a half miles per hour. Whether it is the tiny wren or the huge stork, the rule holds good, and even the bee comes within it. Thus the bee has a wing only a quarter of an inch long, the sparrow's wing is four inches and the stork's twenty-seven. But the bee's wing beats 11,400 times in a minute, the sparrow's 720 and the stork's only 105 times. If you multiply together the length of the wing and the number of beats you will get almost exactly the same result in the three cases—namely, stork, 2,835; bee, 2,850; sparrow, 2,880. But if ever a machine is made to fly like a bird it will have to develop far more energy than these figures stand for. A bird's energy of flight is not so great as is supposed. Although such skillful fliers when aloft, many birds cannot rise from level ground.—London Answers.

WOMANS CLUB HAS NEW OFFICERS

Annual Election Was Held Saturday at May Breakfast—Mrs. P. C. Thompson Gave Reading.

The Woman's club varied the form of its last meeting this year, and gave a May breakfast to its members in Grace church parlors Saturday. The innovation proved most successful and the meeting was a happy climax to a very successful year, under the able leadership of the president, Mrs. J. A. Parsons. An expression of commendation and appreciation of her work is heard from all members of the club.

In the receiving line were the president and the past presidents who were in the city, Mrs. Mary Turner, Carrie, Mrs. J. H. Pankin, Mrs. David Reid, Mrs. Frank Heintz and Miss Grace Dewey. These with the officers of the club, occupied seats at one table.

Following the breakfast, which was faultlessly served in the beautifully decorated dining room, the president called on Miss Frances Wood for a report of the nominating committee, which was as follows:

President—Mrs. William A. Parr.
First vice president—Mrs. J. K. C. Pierce.

Second vice president—Mrs. Laura White.
Recording secretary—Mrs. M. H. Havenhill.

Corresponding secretary—Mrs. E. S. Hume.

Treasurer—Mrs. W. S. Badger.

The report was adopted and the officers declared elected.

The chairmen of the different committees read their reports and submitted same for filing.

The president in her resume of the club work spoke of the initiative taken by the women of this club in launching many philanthropic and civic works.

While the club has not formally announced itself for woman's suffrage, yet such a progressive body of women could do no less than be interested in a subject of such national and international prominence and one of such vital importance to woman kind.

So by request Mrs. Perry C. Thompson read in her delightful manner the clever English play, "How the Vote Was Won."

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

Gonsalves.

The midday train on the Chicago & Northwester brought to the city a sorrowful company, carrying the remains of Mrs. Emmanuel Gonsalves, who passed away Friday at 3 p. m. at the home of her daughter, Mrs. G. F. Wonn of Evansville, Ind.

Last fall her aged husband fell and broke his right hip, since which time he has been an invalid and a cripple and Mrs. Gonsalves has been a sufferer for ten years and finally succumbed to paralysis. Owing to the ill health of both they have resided with their children for the past two years and have received an abundant care and loving attention.

Mrs. Gonsalves was born in the Island of Madeira, April 16, 1832, and joined the persecuted colony which fled to this state and arrived with several sisters in Jacksonville in 1851 and May 16 of that same year she was married to the affable and husband who survives her. This city has been their home since that time until they were obliged to give up housekeeping and seek a home with their children.

It is certain that no man and woman in this city bore better reputations or stood higher in the estimation of all who knew them. When all Mr. Gonsalves was a great joker and had a jolly word for all who knew him and many a hundred jests he enjoyed at his own expense and that of the friends whom he knew but never did his fun leave a sting behind it as it was always good natured.

Eight years ago Mr. and Mrs. Gonsalves celebrated their golden wedding and it was a very happy event attended by children and grandchildren together with many friends. Presumably very valuable were given them and the good will of a host of friends expressed.

She is the mother of three sons, Robert L. and George F., both of Chicago, and Edward M. of Seattle, Wash.; four daughters, Mrs. J. L. Fortado, Mrs. Joseph Vincent and Mrs. Joseph Melina, all of Springfield, and Mrs. G. F. Wonn of Evansville, Ind. Nine grandchildren also arise to call them blessed in many ways.

At the time of Mrs. Gonsalves' arrival in this country she was accompanied by a number of her family and was the last one left, though she and several others and sisters in May. Five years ago she visited her last home, accompanied by her husband and Mrs. R. L. Gonsalves, and enjoyed the trip a great deal.

Both she and her husband were consistent members of Northminster Presbyterian church and were always ready to do their full part in all church activities. She was a member of the Ladies' Aid society and did much in the way of charity toward those less fortunate than herself.

The remains arrived Saturday and were taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vieira, 697 North Diamond street.

The funeral will be conducted at Northminster church at 2:30 this afternoon and burial will be in Jacksonville cemetery.

Those present in the city on this occasion are Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Gonsalves, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Gonsalves and sons, Gordon and Robert, all of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Fortado; Mrs. Joseph Vincent and daughter, Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Melina and children, Marie, Josephine and Edwin, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Lomlino, Mr. and Mrs. John Etienne, all of Springfield; Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Wonn and daughter, Gertrude, of Evansville, Ind.

Beecraft.

E. H. Beecraft died at 12:15 o'clock this (Sunday) morning at his home, 210 East Court street, following an illness of two weeks duration, at the age of 58 years. Mr. Beecraft was born March 10, 1854, and has spent the greater part of his life in this country. For some time he had been an engineer on the Chicago & Alton and was a man held in high esteem. He was twice married. He is survived by his wife and three children born to his first union.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Tucker.

The funeral services of George Tucker of Waverly were held Saturday morning in the church of Rev. George Hart of Franklin. He was 63 years of age and is survived by two sons, William and Dean, both of Waverly.

Even The Doors Are Different On A New Method Gas Range

It is not enough that these Gas Ranges consume 25 per cent. less gas, bake more evenly and quicker than any other gas range, are more easily cleaned, and non-explosive, but even the doors show an improvement over the old style.

The Doors split in the center. Yes, actually split in the center. When the door is open the upper section moves up; preventing the heat from rushing up into your face, the lower half moves down—forming a strong ledge—yet not projecting out too far and being in the way.

Every woman who has experienced the rush of heat into her face as she opened up the old style door will appreciate this improvement.

These Split Oven Doors are so evenly balanced that they stay anywhere you place them. There are no catching devices, locks, springs, etc., to get out of order as in the ordinary style door.

But the split oven door is only one of the 18 different ways in which the New Method differs from all other Gas Ranges.

We couldn't begin to tell of all the special features of the New Method Ranges in one advertisement, we couldn't in a dozen.

Come in and let us personally show you these special features, let us demonstrate each one in detail, let us show you how this feature saves gas, how this one insures perfect baking, how this one prevents explosions, how this one adds to your convenience, etc.

A SUBSTANTIAL CITY.

The Illinois grain dealers are going to hold their convention here in 1913. It is almost certain that the Redmen will come unless the education campaign has been waged by Mayor Davis and others fails and there is a good chance for securing the state photographers' annual meeting. Efforts to secure other state meetings will also be undertaken by the Business Men's association and by individual citizens and the efforts are worth while. Jacksonville is well fitted to entertain visitors and there are many attractions here to interest all who come. Take it at this season of the year, any man or woman who comes to Jacksonville insists that this city is the prettiest he or she ever saw. All the year round Jacksonville knows how to give the "glad hand" to visitors, but during those months when the trees and flowers are in their glory the city appears to its best advantage. When it comes to offering advantages to manufacturing concerns this city possibly cannot keep pace with some other cities, but as a convention city, Jacksonville can meet the requirements of accessibility, hospitality and general attractiveness. The more conventions that come the better the city is advertised and the more business is brought in for local merchants.

No doubt, however, there are people who do not appreciate the benefits which come along with and follow in the wake of conventions. Over in Springfield one year they had twenty-three conventions secured through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce. A Jacksonville business man some time ago in conversation with a Springfield business man commented upon the fact that so many conventions had been held in Springfield and spoke of the business which must have been brought to the city in consequence. The Springfield man said he had never thought much about it. There are people just like that in Jacksonville. There are people here who sometimes forget about the many attractions of Jacksonville, who forget that while no vast changes go on here from year to year, that always a substantial sort of prosperity reigns. Some of these people will tell you that Jacksonville is just the "dearest town" in the whole country, that there is nothing doing here and that a boy has no chance here to get ahead in a business way. Some time when you hear a man talking about "no chances" for boys here just ask him to figure over the last ten or fifteen years, give you the names of boys who during that time have developed into business men. Then ask him to compare the successes of those who have stayed here and those who have gone away. The answer will be in favor of Jacksonville.

But some of the people who say that Jacksonville is dead and that everybody who can get away is leaving are not at heart knockers. Its only under certain conditions that these men assay to criticize Jacksonville and to wish that things were better here. If some of these occasionally knockers happen on a group where Jacksonville is under discussion and getting the worst of the argument, they always rise to the defense of Jacksonville and will proclaim that they would rather live here than in any other spot on the face of the globe. Half of the knockers really have a lot of patriotism at heart. They are simply victims of a habit and so from time to time when feeling a little disgruntled forget all about the blessings of Jacksonville and magnify whatever may be the city's faults and shortcomings.

Talking about a dead city, if you think that Jacksonville is about to be abandoned just start out to look for a house to rent. True there may be a few desirable houses which have not occupants but in most cases the houses which are empty now are in that condition because they are not modern or are really out of repair. John Cherry has more houses than anyone else to rent and at present only one of the number is vacant and has been without a tenant only a short time. During the past week one Jacksonville family moved to Springfield because a suitable home could not be found here and for a number of weeks past a number of real estate agents have been on the lookout for houses for three families who want to come to Jacksonville. Not long ago it was announced that R. C. Reynolds, acting for the Reynolds estate, would build two houses on West College avenue on the site of the old Reynolds home. The excavations have not yet been made for the houses, yet Mr. Reynolds has received no less than a dozen applications from people who would like to rent the houses. However, he is building these houses to sell.

One reason houses here are in such demand is that former residents come back. Did you ever notice how many people there are who "come back" to Jacksonville and good old Morgan county. Business men go away to other cities where the opportunities for larger business are alluring. Farmers move to other counties or states where land is cheaper and the crop producing possibilities are "just as good." Every year some of these people come back and they do so because they have found by experience that for substantial prosperity for steady business success they can find no better field of operations than right here at home. Right today there are former Morgan county land owners who sold their holdings, went to where land was cheaper, bought, sold and are now looking again for the chance to buy again in Morgan county. And of course they are finding out that values have advanced.

Today Morgan county farmers are behind with their work. The rain is delaying all farm operations. Most of the wheat was killed during the past winter, lots of hogs died from cholera, the corn blight disease has taken off many a horse, but late next fall when the Morgan county farmer balances up his books, his bank standing will be all O. K. Somehow the business of the season gets equalized in this locality and while some years are more prosperous than others, never is a real failure recorded.

Imprisoned in the Wind.

Butterflies may be imprisoned and uninjured in the midst of a whirlwind. Gales in a genuine typhoon are so terrible that the stoutest ships can scarcely hope to weather them, but there is a spot at the very center of the storm where something like a dead calm prevails. From the outer edge of the disturbance, which may be 300 miles across, the wind velocity increases toward the center until within a few miles of that point there comes a sudden lull. There the rain ceases and the sky often clears. In this little calm area, which sailors call "the eye of the storm," a group of butterflies has frequently been imprisoned, and their dainty, delicate forms are as safe in this aerial cage as if hovering in sunny meadows, but as helpless as in a collector's bottle.

Defining a Duck.

A schoolboy assigned to prepare an essay on ducks submitted the following: "The duck is a low, heavy set bird composed mostly of meat and feathers. He is a mighty poor singer, having a hoarse voice, caused by getting so many frogs in his neck. He likes the water and carries a toy balloon in his stomach to keep him from sinking. The duck has only two legs, and they are set so far back on his running gear by nature that they come pretty near missing his body. Some ducks when they get big have curls on their tails and are called drakes. Drakes don't have to set or hatch, but just loaf and go swimming and eat everything in sight. If I was to be a duck I would rather be a drake."—Exchange.

Skeleton of the Skyscraper.

The skyscraper is taller when building than when built. While the red steel columns are being set one upon the top of the next by the long arm of the erector they seem to be climbing upward and upward without end, says the Chicago Post. It is as if they had set out to reach the clouds and man was helping them to realize their aspirations. And while the unfinished top sticks manfully into the air realization appears perfectly possible. It is only when the horizontal line of the eaves is drawn at right angles to the vertical lines of the pillars, when the roof is put on and the climbing steel boxed in, that the building loses its aspiration and becomes as limited as the rest of us.

Malay Superstitions.

You can scarcely ever get your money from a Malay on Friday because Malays believe that if they pay their creditors on a Friday they will be overtaken by poverty. Malays never shave or cut their nails on Saturday or Tuesday because these are unlucky days, and if they do part with their hair or nails on those days they believe that they will be always in trouble or will die quickly.

Pretty Certain.

A well known millionaire was saying to his confidential clerk one day, "Now I've arranged those papers for my wife and children all right, so that if I die?"

"If you die?" interrupted the secretary. "Say when you die; there's no if about dying."

MUST BELIEVE IT.

When Well Known Jacksonville People Tell It So Plainly.

When public endorsement is made by a representative citizen of Jacksonville the proof is positive. You must believe it. Read this testimony. Every sufferer of kidney back ache, every man, woman or child with kidney trouble will do well to read the following:

Mrs. Thomas Davis, 830 Beasley avenue, Jacksonville, Ill., says: "I was a sufferer from kidney complaint for many years and my entire system was affected. I had acute pains in my back, felt weak and languid and had but little energy. As I had often heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, I decided to try them and a short time ago I procured a box at Armstrong's drug store. Since using this remedy, I have had less pain in my back and have felt better in every way. In return for the benefit I have already received, I heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills." For sale at all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

For the Children

The Sad Story of a Saucy Young Crow.

This is the mournful tale of a crow who came to a sad end. He was taken from his parents' nest when just about able to fly and soon became very tame. He was much interested in the chickens that lived on his master's place, but they did not take a fancy to him. He continually annoyed them, and sometimes they paid him back in kind. On one occasion he was sitting on the edge of a bucket, getting drunk, when a hen slipped up behind him and, with a prod of her beak, sent him head over heels into the water. Even this did not cool his ardor for plaguing the hens. At length he went too far and tried to pick up a game chicken. The mother hen tackled him with great fury, and when she had finished with him the poor crow was dead.

Notable Numbers.

The game of "notable numbers" is interesting. Try it when your friends come. It is played thus: Each of the party is to write on a slip of paper some number. Then the papers are all folded up and collected in a box. When collected they must be shaken so as to be thoroughly mixed, and the box being passed around again, each player is to take one of the papers and, reading the number upon it, is to tell why the number is famous—for instance:

"Number seven; there are seven days in a week."

"Number three; three feet make a yard."

"Number four; four weeks make a month."

"Number ten; the council of ten."

If your friends are well posted they will find something to fit almost any number, while those who cannot think of a ready answer must pay a forfeit.

A Dainty Flower.

The Grecians had many legends, most of them very pretty. You all know the flower called narcissus. They tell a pretty story about it. There was once a lovely youth called Narcissus, who was loved by all, but whose heart was so cold that he did not return any of the affection bestowed on him. The little nymph Echo fell in love with him, but the youth spurned her love, and she pined away and died of a broken heart. Punishment, however, followed Narcissus in the form of Nemesis, the spirit of retribution. One day the youth was bending over a stream, admiring his lovely image reflected in the glassy waters, when, bending low to kiss the face he saw, he lost his balance and fell in. To perpetrate his beauty the gods, so the legend goes, turned him into the flower which now bears his name.

The Bachelor Girl Game.

Any number of players sit in a row or around a table, and one known as the questioner asks each in turn what he or she will contribute to help furnish the bachelor girl's den. When each has named an article, which may range from a cooking utensil to a fine painting, the questioner begins again with the first player to his right and asks all sorts of questions, to each of which the player must give an answer the name of the article that he or she had offered to contribute to the den.

If any player laughs while being questioned or gives any answer but the name of the article he has offered he must pay a forfeit. In such a case the questioner begins his attack on the next player in order and continues his questions until he is assured that the player will not laugh or give any but the right answer.

The Disk Game.

Upon a large square of white oil-cloth paint sixteen red spots five inches in diameter and fasten it securely to the ground. Cut from a sheet of galvanized iron ten disks, each one exactly the size of one of the spots. Five disks form a set. The object of the game is to completely cover one spot or more with the five disks thrown from a distance of eight feet. All may be used in covering one spot, but no particle of red must show.

The Sandman.

The sandman lives down on the beach. Where the waves roll on and on. He nips and keeps just out of reach Till the day is past and done.

I want to ask him why he takes Little boys and girls alone And leaves the big folk wide awake Until half the night is gone.

CHURCH STEEPLES.

And the Ancient Mountain Peak Shrines of the Storm God.

There is a theory which finds the spire of the New England meeting house in the mountain peaks of Arabia.

Tracing back the process of evolution, we come first to London, where the clean sweep of the great fire gave Sir Christopher Wren his opportunity to experiment in steeples, and then Venice, where the campanile is a shining example of a tower beside a church, but separate from it, and then to Alexandria, where the famous light-house on the Isle of Pharos contributed to the religion of Mohammed both the form and the name of the minaret, and then to the tower of Babel at Borsippa and the zikkurats of the temples of Babylon and Assyria. A zikkurat is a huge quadrangular mass of brick, rising in diminishing stories—as a child places a big block on the floor and puts a smaller one on it and on that a smaller still—and ascended by a winding balustraded stair to a shrine on top.

This, according to the theory, was the ritual equivalent of a mountain.

Into the flat lands between the Tigris and Euphrates came the ancestors of the Babylonians and Assyrians out of the mountains of Arabia. There they had worshipped the storm god, who dwelt upon the heights among the clouds, with whom they communed, like Moses, by climbing up and making their offerings and saying their prayers upon the summit. And because there were no mountains in their new country they erected beside every temple a little mountain in the yard. Thus the zikkurat, and then the minaret, and then the campanile and then the steeple of the parish church.—George Hodges in Atlantic Magazine.

TANGIER ISLAND.

Where the People Do Without Jails, Lawyers, Horses and Cows.

There is a little island in Chesapeake bay, 125 miles south of Baltimore, where the world has stood still for more than a hundred years. Tangier island is five miles long and much less than a mile wide, but more than 1,500 people live on it. There is only one street, nine feet wide, without sidewalks, and the houses are all built along this street with narrow canals of the deep water of the bay between each two houses. There is only one church, presided over by a Methodist minister, and only one doctor, and there is no cemetery, the dead of each family being buried in the yard. There is no newspaper, no jail, no lockup and no lawyers nor any need for them. Everybody is deeply religious, and profanity is punished with a fine imposed by the deacon of the church.

The men go fishing and crabbing in sailboats early on Monday mornings and do not come home until Saturdays. There are no gardens, no horses or cows, but plenty of chickens are raised. Fuel is supplied to the islanders by sloops, which come every month or so loaded with wood and anchor off Tangier, sending small boats piled with cordwood and kindlings to every house by means of the little canals. The women wear sunbonnets and go barefooted, and there is an organ in nearly every home. Tangier was first settled by white people in 1686 and before that time was occupied by the Indians.—Exchange.

Barring the Evil Spirits.

The Chinese believe that evil spirits are able to move only in straight lines and that they cannot penetrate through solid matter; therefore the problem of keeping them out of a dwelling or a garden seems to them a simple matter. On passing through the entrance of the ordinary middle class home in China it is necessary to turn to the right or left because of a cross screen, the purpose of which, according to Popular Mechanics, is to keep evil spirits out. Likewise just at the back of the entrance to a walled garden may sometimes be found another wall erected for the same purpose.

Love Matches.

"I argued and wrangled about love matches with Miss Marie Corell one whole day in her old-fashioned Stratford home," said a prominent woman magazine writer, "but she rather got the better of me at the end with a epigram:

"She who marries for love," Miss Corell said, "enters heaven with her eyes shut. She who marries without love enters it with them open."

A HUSBAND'S DUTY

He Owes It to His Family to Have His House in Order.

PROVISION FOR THE FUTURE.

A Few Very Sensible and Very Practical Suggestions to the Man Who Doesn't Stop to Think About What May Happen When He Is Gone.

There are any number of men who are the most indulgent of husbands and fathers, providing a good living for their families and who yet live up to the least of their incomes, with never a thought for the future and never an effort to protect their loved ones and their homes in case of their death.

To such men, as well as to those who are prudent, but who keep putting off the arrangement of their business affairs to meet such an emergency, the following sensible suggestions by Willis Frederick Dix in the New York Independent may be of interest:

Is your house really in order? Outwardly, perhaps, yes, since your wife is a good housekeeper, but how about your own personal affairs? Your lawyer has perhaps drawn your will for you, and your personal accounts are businesslike, but have you looked that will over recently, and in the case of your death is there some one in your household who is sufficiently familiar with your account book to understand your system?

Have you tried to imagine just what condition would exist in your family immediately after your death, and have you carefully provided for that condition? These and a number of similar questions must be answered satisfactorily before you can say that your house is really in order.

The following are a few practical suggestions which, if you think them over and act upon them, may be the means of saving you or your family from some seriously inconvenient plight or actual trouble and loss.

First of all, make a point of keeping your wife or some member of your household familiar with your system of personal accounts. Let her know where your safety deposit box is, where you keep the key, where your letter file relating to these business matters is kept and just what your relations to your business is. You know it is quite possible that you will die sometime.

Keep your fire insurance policies in your safety deposit box, where they will not be burned with your house, and keep in the same package with them, plans and specifications of your house, so that the fire insurance companies can know definitely just how much it would cost to replace it. With your furniture insurance policy keep a detailed inventory of your household effects, with statement of their values. It would be impossible for you to do this from memory after the goods have been destroyed, and much needless trouble would necessarily ensue without such a list. And do not rely wholly upon your agent to renew your policies as they expire. Keep a list of the dates of expiry in your account book, where you will see them prominently.

CHAUTAUQUA NOW ASSURED

Efforts of Organizers and Business Men Indicate Successful and Enjoyable Affair—Three-fourths Stock Already Raised.

Through the activity of the business men of the city and the rapid selling of stock for the proposed chautauqua the affair is now practically certain to be on the city's summer program. The chautauqua, which is to be held in beautiful Nichols park and which will cover a period of ten days, is to be a festival of amusement, lectures and educational features, and one which will benefit the city financially and will also tend toward moral uplift.

It is planned to bring the educational institutions of the city into the chautauqua as much as possible and to make a "home coming" week event in connection with the ten days park festival. This would tend to bring a great many people into the city. If the alumni and old students of the Woman's college, Illinois college and other of our educational institutions could be brought together during this week and a gala week planned, a great many people who could not otherwise attend the ten day lecture course and chautauqua would be brought to Jacksonville and the affair would be much more successful thereby.

The ten day meeting at Nichols park will also afford to many people the opportunity for recreation in the form of camp life. A tent colony is planned and the park will be thrown open to those who wish to take advantage of this feature of the chautauqua. The park affords an excellent place for this particular part of the program and there will be many, no doubt, who will avail themselves of this opportunity.

About three-fourths of the stock necessary to promote the affair has already been subscribed. From the way the stock has been taken up in the past week it is safe to predict that no trouble will be found in placing the remaining shares of stock. Much credit is due the Business Men's association in their backing of the chautauqua. The representative business men of the city are beginning to see the advantages to be gained through having the chautauqua here during the summer fall period of the year and are beginning to wake to the advantages which this ten day meeting will offer them.

Everybody should go together and make Jacksonville's first chautauqua one that the city will be proud to look back on and one that will be up to the Jacksonville standard way of doing things.

WHAT Y. M. C. A. HAS DONE FOR THEM

Young Men and Boys Write Letters to Directors Telling of Benefits Received at Association.

The following quotations from letters received by the board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. at their regular meeting Thursday tell their own story. When the directors know that there are at least 125 other boys who enjoy the privileges of the gymnasium, swimming pool, shower baths, reading room, rest and game rooms is it any wonder that they hesitate to close the doors of the institution? Yet they will be forced to take this step if immediate financial help is not given.

"I have been a member of this association for about four years. Through its leadership I have found many friends and benefactors. It has helped me in a spiritual way and made many good things for me. I cannot express how much it has done for me physically. Above all the association is a leader of young men into the church. I cannot express my thanks by words to all who have helped our association."—Harry Walker.

"The association has done me a great deal of good in the way of physical advantages. Since I have joined the Y. M. C. A. I have gained many friends. I would like to see this institution still remain open for many years to come."—Dale Boxell.

"I have held a membership in the Y for seven years and I am sure it has done me a great deal of good, especially in a physical way."—Robert Capps.

"I have been a member of the Y for several years and since joining it has done big things for me. First, it has helped me in a religious way at the boys' meetings, also services which are held at the Y camp in summer; second, it has made me numerous friends that have helped me out at different times; third, it has helped me in a physical way. The use of the gym and attending class during the winter months has helped me to a great extent. There is nothing better for a boy than to grow up in a Y. M. C. A. where he may use the many advantages it affords."—Lance L. Waterfield.

"What the Y. M. C. A. has done for me: First, Helped me morally and physically. 2. Have had better class of companions. 3. Kept me from getting into the habit of living in a pool room."—Walton Boxell.

"The Y. M. C. A. of Jacksonville has given an open hand to its members and has truly been cordial in its dealings. Everything has been above board and I for one have enjoyed myself during my short time here. It is my aim to do all I can to uphold its principles."—Arve P. Johnson.

"I have been protected by the hospitality and offerings of the Y. M. C. A. After joining the association and learning of its many accommodations my attention was called to my younger brother, who in a short time was a member. To me it would be a severe loss because I have never attended pool rooms and the like. I trust that your actions will be to the best, but please keep open this building."—Arthur V. De Graff.

"I am at a loss to express my appreciation or gratitude for what the association has done for me. The above is written after eleven years of association life in every branch."—Victor E. Vieira.

"I have been a member of the Y. M. C. A. for a short time. It has helped me in several ways. It has kept me out of pool rooms. It has helped me mentally and physically."

The above letters were written voluntarily and wholly unsolicited.

BILL PROPOSED TO AID GOOD ROADS

Government May Contribute to Upbuilding of Public Highways by Paying Graduated Toll—Points of Bill Explained.

One of the Jacksonville rural mail carriers calls attention to an article in a recent number of "The R. F. D. News," pertaining to the Shackleford good roads bill, which has been adopted by the house and which will likely soon come before the senate. All persons interested in good roads will read the following explanation of the proposed law as given in the rural carriers' official organ:

The Shackleford good roads bill adopted by the house provides that the federal government shall contribute to the upbuilding of public highways by paying a graduated toll for the use of all roads over which the rural mails are carried. The basic principle is compensation to be paid by the federal government for the use of such roads traversed to be divided into three classes.

The Shackleford bill is a composite proposition and was approved by all members of the house who had introduced road bills.

The bill is as follows: That for the purposes of this act certain highways of the several states, and the civil subdivisions thereof, are classified as follows:

Class A shall embrace roads of not less than one mile in length, upon which no grade shall be steeper than is reasonably and practically necessary in view of the natural topography of the locality, well drained, with a road track not less than 9 feet wide composed of shelled, vitrified brick, or macadam, graded, crowned, compacted, and maintained in such manner that it shall have continuously a firm, smooth surface, and all other roads having a road track not less than 9 feet wide of a construction equally smooth, firm, durable and expensive and continuously kept in proper repair.

Class B shall embrace roads of not less than one mile in length, upon which no grade shall be steeper than is reasonably and practically necessary in view of the natural topography of the locality, well drained, with a road track not less than 9 feet wide composed of burnt clay, gravel, or a proper combination of sand and clay, sand and gravel, constructed and maintained in such manner as to have continuously a firm, smooth surface.

Class C shall embrace roads of not less than one mile in length upon which no grade shall be steeper than is reasonably and practically necessary in view of the natural topography of the locality, with ample side ditches, so constructed and crowned as to shed water quickly into the side ditches, continuously kept well constructed and with a firm, smooth surface by dragging or other adequate means, so that it shall be reasonably usable for wheeled vehicles at all times. That whenever the United States shall use any highway of any state, or civil subdivision thereof, which falls within classes A, B, C, for the purpose of transporting rural mail, compensation for such use shall be made at the rate of $25 per annum per mile for highways of class A, $20 per annum per mile for highways of class B, and $15 per annum per mile for highways of class C. The United States shall not pay any compensation or toll for such use of such highways other than that provided for in this section, and shall pay no compensation whatever for the use of any highway not falling within classes A, B, or C. That any question arising as to the proper classification of any road used for transporting rural mail shall be determined by the secretary of agriculture. That the compensation herein provided for shall be paid at the end of each fiscal year by the treasurer of the United States upon warrants drawn upon him by the postmaster general to the officers entitled to the custody of the funds of the respective highways entitled to compensation under this act.

The provisions of this paragraph shall go into effect on the 1st day of July, 1913.

It is estimated that the annual expenditure to carry out the provisions of the Shackleford amendment will be from $7,000,000 to $14,000,000.

Notice is hereby given that I, the undersigned administrator of the estate of Manerva Wilson, deceased, have caused my final report and account as such administrator to be placed on file in the office of the clerk of the county court of Morgan county, and that I shall apply to said court on Monday, the 27th day of May, A. D. 1912, at 9 o'clock of that day, or as soon thereafter as I can be heard, for an order of approval of said report and account, and for my final discharge, at which time and place all persons interested can appear and show cause, if any they have, why such order and discharge should not be granted.

Charles W. Kiel, Administrator.

As "Ed" Howe Sees Life

As you become older, gradually accustom yourself to neglect.

In many ways, a presidential campaign reminds me of war dance given by tame Indians to entertain guests of the Indian agent.

I believe the hen pecked men would revolt if a bold and capable leader should appear.

I am in favor of any doctrine that will prove itself, and benefit its adherents.

The man who wasn't there is still able to tell what should have been done in the emergency.

The American people are unable in private conversation to overcome the bad effects of their Big Talk in public.

This charge is frequently heeded at the men: "Woman baster!" But there never was such a thing, among the men.

Of course a man has wrongs; some say the first one in his birth. And then follows a long list of exquisite ones he can't avoid, ending in that famous big one; his death.

Hypocrisy never helps, even when you are pretending to be better than you really are.

If you want to exercise your will power, exercise it in the direction of giving people cause to say that you are one of the farthest, politest and most energetic men in town.

Republican nominee for Supreme Court, Judge Grier is one of the known jurists in the state of Illinois. His recommendation to the voters of this district is a splendid record for nine years on the Circuit bench. The election for Supreme Judge is to be held June 3. Every voter should cast his ballot.

Unusual interest is being awakened in the judicial election set for June 3 over this fourth judicial district, because politicians agree that it may be taken as a fair barometer of the results to be expected at the coming national election in November.

Two contestants for this great office, one of the most responsible within the gift of Illinois voters, are making an active campaign through the district. Judge Robert J. Grier, Republican nominee is battling in a most dignified manner with Judge Cooke a Democrat, the present incumbent of the office.

The campaign of Judge Grier is arousing unusual interest throughout the whole of western Illinois. He entered the campaign, the unanimous choice of the Republican party, ready as a drafted servant of the people. For nine years he has most ably presided as a circuit judge in the district which includes his home county of Warren. Not a politician by nature, or inclination, and disliking the strife and turmoil of a political contest, his personal inclination was to remain a servant of the people as a circuit judge. The call of his party, prompted by the knowledge that his name ranks as one of the great judges of the state, was so insistent that he reluctantly consented to enter the contest for supreme judge.

Rounding out a long and honorable record of thirty-six years as a practicing attorney, and on the circuit bench, Judge Grier is eminently qualified for the position which he seeks.

Elevated to Judgeship.

In 1903 Judge Grier was elected circuit judge to succeed the late Judge Glenn. The district in which Judge Grier was elected comprised the counties of Fulton, Knox, Warren, Mercer, McDonough and Hancock, and in this district Judge Grier still presides as circuit judge.

Judge Grier's record on the circuit bench has been one of brilliant success. His record has been equalled by few and probably never excelled by any circuit judge in the state of Illinois. In the nine years which he has been on the circuit bench, he has been reversed by the state's supreme court in only a few rare instances and in one or two of these occasions these reversals have been due to the unconstitutionality of the law on which judgment was rendered. This record has made the Republican nominee in this district one of the best known judges in the state of Illinois, and a jurist who is conceded to be a first rank among the great judges of the state.

Election is Important.

The election for supreme judge is to be held June 3. The election is a most important one and every effort is being made by the Republicans of this county, as well as by the party in the other counties of the district, to get the voters out on election day.

CLUB HOUSE COMPLETED.

Mescow Bay company have just completed one of the neatest club houses at Bath, Ill., that can be found along the Illinois river. It has only four rooms, one large sitting or club room, two bed rooms, one for ladies, and a most complete kitchen. The main room has an immense, old fashioned, built fire place, and is a splendid room.

The porch, screened, is 12x28 and makes a fine place for hammocks and rocking chairs. The company owns about 400 acres of land and water, and the grounds at this time are in excellent shape and fishing good. The members and their families will enjoy Thursday, May 16, as the opening day of the season and a dedication of the new home. The members will bring whatever individual lunches they desire, but the company will furnish plenty of fish and coffee. A launch will also be at the service of the ladies and children and will be a feature of the day. The water is yet high.

for line fishing, yet many good catches have been made. Bass are plentiful.

UNDERWENT OPERATION.

Dr. William H. Weirich underwent an operation for appendicitis at Passavant hospital Saturday, Dr. J. A. Day performing the operation. He was resting well late last night.

A NERVOUS WRECK.

Mrs. Mae McKnight of Ononago, Mo., writes: "I was simply a nervous wreck. I could not even walk across the floor without my heart fluttering and I suffered with such bearing down sensations every month. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has not only done my nerves a world of good, but has relieved me from pain and I am recommending it to my friends."

BOTH PHONES, 621

Nature has made ample provision in the sunshine and moisture of the air for the outward life and protection of the skin, but the more important work of nourishing the cuticle has been left to an inward source—the blood. It is from the circulation that the pores and glands receive their support, and the fibrous tissues are all preserved in a healthful state because of constant nourishment supplied by the blood.

So long as the blood is pure and rich the skin will be free from eruptions or disease, but when the circulation becomes infected with acids and humors its nourishing and healthful properties are greatly diminished, and this acid, humor-laden condition causes irritation and inflammation of the delicate tissues and fibres. Then the effect is shown in Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, or some other distressing, disfiguring skin disease.

Humors and impurities get into the blood through a deranged or inactive condition of the system. Those members whose duty it is to collect and expel the refuse matter of the system fail to properly do their work, and this surplus or waste matter is left in the system to sour and be absorbed into the blood.

The cause of all skin diseases can be traced to some humor or acid in the blood. Smooth, healthy skins are only possible where the circulation is pure; and therefore the cure of any skin affection can only come from a thorough cleansing of this vital fluid. Salves, washes, lotions, etc., are valuable only for their ability to keep the skin clean, allay superficial irritation, or soften the hardened cuticle. Such treatment cannot cure because it does not reach the blood where the cause is located, and to depend upon such measures alone usually results in the aggravation and spreading of any skin trouble.

S. S. S. cures Skin Diseases of every kind by neutralizing the acids and removing all humors or other impurities from the blood.

S. S. S. cools the acid-heated circulation, builds it up to its normal strength and thickness, multiplies its rich, nutritious corpuscles, and adds to its purity and nourishing qualities in every way. Then the skin instead of being irritated and inflamed by acids and fiery humors, is nourished, soothed and made perfect by a plentiful supply of rich, pure blood. S. S. S. is the great-est of all blood purifiers and there-in lies its ability to cure skin troubles.

It cures Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, pimples, boils, rashes and all eruptions of the cuticle. These troubles cannot remain when the cause has been removed, and S. S. S. will certainly remove the cause by purifying the blood. Book on Skin Diseases and medical advice free.

ANCESTORS OF THE SPENCER FAMILY

Many Early Settlers of That Name—
Record Traced Back to 1623.

William Spencer of South East street, a long time and respected resident of Jacksonville, has given the Journal a history of the Spencer family taken from the New Orleans Times-Democrat. There are so many descendants of the Spencer family in Jacksonville and Morgan county that the facts about the Spencer ancestors will be of interest to many.

The Spencer family is one which was early well represented by many settlers in the new world. In Massachusetts perhaps twenty colonists of the name arrived before 1650, and there were other early settlers of the name in Virginia, New Jersey and probably in some of the other states. A list of all the first settlers who bore this name would be practically impossible to obtain, owing to the lack of record of some of the early members of the family; but the following list is approximately correct and complete:

Thomas of Virginia, in 1623; William of James City, Va., the same year; Nicholas, president of the council and acting governor of Virginia in 1683-4; George of Boston, Mass., 1639; John of Newbury, Mass., 1634, and his nephew, John, of East Greenwich, R. I., four years later; Jared of Cambridge, Mass., in 1632, and of Hartford, Conn., in 1638; William of Cambridge, Mass., 1632, and in 1639 a resident of Hartford, Conn., and Michael of Cambridge, Mass., 1634, Lynn, Mass., 1638 and Haddam, Conn., 1650, each said by different authorities to be the brother of Jared and Thomas; Roger of Charlestown, Mass., 1648, and of Saco, Me., 1650; Thomas of Piscataqua, (now Kittery), Me., 1630; Ichabod of Connecticut, and James of New Jersey, in 1636.

The English ancestors, even one or two generations back, of most of the early Spencer in America are known. The long genealogy preserved by the descendants of Nicholas Spencer of Virginia, however, makes up for a good many lacks, so far as ancestors go, which may be found in some of the other Spencer families. For the ancestors of Nicholas go back to royal blood in England.

Nicholas, who died Sept. 23, 1689, lived in Copple parish, Westmoreland county, Virginia, and was president of the council and acting governor of Virginia in 1683-4. He left several children. He was the second son of Nicholas Seaver, Esq., of Bedfordshire, England, who died in 1644, and of his wife, Mary Bostwick, the daughter of Ann Westworth and Edward Bostwick. Ann was the daughter of John Wentworth, Esq., who married Cecelia Unton, the daughter of Sir Edward Unton, who was knighted at Queen Elizabeth's coronation and who was further honored by the queen when she condescended to pay a visit to Sir Edward. Sir Edward married Ann Seymour, who was the daughter of Edward Seymour, a brother of Jane, who married King Henry VII, and was the mother of Elizabeth's half brother, Edward VI. Edward married Ann Stanhope, whose mother was the great granddaughter of the Earl of Eu and of Anne, heiress and daughter of the Duke of Gloucester, the youngest son of King Edward III.

Nicholas Spencer, the American ancestor, married Frances, daughter of Col. Mottram of Northumberland county, Virginia, and had several children.

There seems to be a difference of opinion about the relationship of Jared, William, Thomas and Michael Spencer of Massachusetts and other New England colonists. One record states that Jared, Michael and Thomas of Cambridge were brothers. Another states that Jared, or Garrard, as his name was sometimes spelled in early days, William and Thomas Spencer, three brothers from England, went with the Rev. Thomas Hooker from Cambridge, Mass., to found Hartford, Conn. Still another record states that William and Thomas were among the first settlers of Hartford. It is of course, quite possible that these four first settlers—William, Thomas, Michael and Jared—were brothers.

At all events, William was one of the first settlers of Hartford, Conn., where he was a landed proprietor, selectman and deputy at the general court of Connecticut. In 1639 he prepared the first revision of the laws of the colony, and died in 1640.

A descendant of William in the fifth generation was Asa, who served through the Revolutionary war, and was under Gen. Anthony Wayne at the storming of Stony Point. There was another military valor in this branch of the William Spencer family, for Asa's son, James Bradley Spencer, raised a company for the war of 1812, and served as captain of the Twenty-ninth United States Infantry at Plattsburgh. His brother, Abner, was captain also in the Twenty-ninth Infantry in the war of 1812. Abner remained in the army after the war and was appointed military governor of Arkansas. Descendants of this line gained distinction in the navy as well as in the army, and in peace as well as in war, for several famous Spencers descended from the first settler, William, are known as clergymen and jurists.

Jared, supposed brother of William, also was represented in the revolutionary war. Joseph, a descendant in the fourth generation, born in 1714, was a major in the Second Connecticut Regiment, and Israel, born in 1722, the son of Jared's grandson, Isaac, and the latter's wife, Mary Selden, was captain of a company in the Connecticut line. This Israel married Elizabeth Marsh, descended from the Rev. Thomas Hooker, and had Israel Selden Spencer, born in 1762, who, in spite of his youth—he was only fifteen at the time—entered the revolutionary war in 1777 as a private.

Another Spencer of revolutionary note was Peleg of New Lebanon,

Conn., who was born in 1759. He was wounded by Indians in the war, and, although he lived for many years, the government pensioned his widow, Ann Smith Spencer, when he died.

Peleg and Ann Smith Spencer had a son, Allen, of New Lebanon, Conn., who was born in 1783, and who married Lucy, the daughter of Amos Broad, who kept the Mountain House at New Lebanon, where the stages which ran from Boston to Buffalo stopped. Allen Spencer was made ensign of Infantry April 3, 1812, and rose by brave conduct in the war of 1812 to be a colonel. His wife received a grant of land for the service he rendered the government in the war.

The name Spencer is not of Anglo-Saxon derivation. It came originally from the low Latin "dispensare," which means "to weigh out." This word dispensare was rendered into the French "dispensier," and in turn this word gave the middle English "spencere," from which the family name Spencer eventually was developed to suit some man who carried on the trade of a spencere.

The meaning of the word spencere, and of the name spencer, as it was originally used, is one who weighs out, a dispenser, or caterer. This position in a great mediæval household or castle, was a position of great trust, as only a person of undoubted honesty was allowed to hold it.

In William the Conqueror's Domesday Book the name occurs in this country. The name appears "Spencer," but the change from "s" to "c" is only one of those usual exchanges of consonants having the same euphonic value. Spencer was the form first used in England, where it gained fame in England in the sixteenth century as the name of the author of the "Falerie Queene," Edmund Spenser.

Spencer is a name borne in several noble houses of Great Britain. One of these, the Spencer family of Althorp Park, is said to be related to the Washington family in England, from which George Washington descended. It is said that this family was founded by one Le Despenser. A sixteenth century scion of this family was Sir John Spencer of Smithfield, Warwick, who died in 1522. Sir John bought two estates, Wormleighton, Warwick and Althorp, in Brighton North. It is said that one of his descendants, Lord Spencer of Wormleighton, gave a house to his kinsman, Robert Washington—the great-grandfather of the American founder of the Washington family—and his son, Laurence Washington, in Little Brighton, a hamlet near Althorp Park.

The arms illustrated are those borne by the descendants of Nicholas Spencer of Virginia. They are described: Quarterly, first and fourth or, and gules, second and third a fret of the first on a bend sable three fleurs-de-lis argent. The crest is described: Out of a ducal coronet, gules a griffin's head argent collared or between two wings expanded of the third, charged on the head and on each wing, a fleur-de-lis sable, and on the neck a crescent.

LECTURE ON "GREAT PANAMA."

R. H. Peck of St. Louis will deliver his famous lecture on "The Great Panama Canal," Thursday evening, May 16, at Brown's business college, under the auspices of the 1912 graduating class. Mr. Peck was one of the 125 men representing the Business Men's League of St. Louis, who visited Panama and obtained accurate information about the canal and its importance to the Mississippi valley. Besides this he succeeded in taking 160 of the best photographs of Panama in existence. Next to visiting Panama yourself, you will get a more definite and clear understanding of the enterprise through Mr. Peck's interesting account of it than you can get in any other way. Hear him Thursday night.

GIRL ALWAYS WEAK.

Tells How She Became Strong and Vigorous.

"When I see pale, puny children on the street I always wonder what their parents are doing. If anything, to build up their strength," said a well dressed man the other day. Mary Lang, of Altoona, Pa., was one such child. Her story is told in one of her own letters. "Ever since childhood," she says, "I have been weak and delicate and my blood has been thin and poor. Many different forms of treatment did me no good but last spring I took Vinol and now I am so much stronger and better that I want you to know it. I don't know when I have felt so well and vigorous as I have since taking Vinol."

We only wish the every weak, rundown sickly person would realize that Vinol is the one best remedy to enrich the blood, build up the body and put the glow of health in pale cheeks. "Your meager back if you are not pleased, let me sell Vinol, so you can believe in it. Lee P. Allcott, druggist, Jacksonville, Ill.

Put a Detroit Jewel Gas Range in Your Kitchen

WE know from experience that there are no other gas ranges made which give anywhere near such universal satisfaction in the long run. There are no other gas ranges which to the casual observer may look just as good as Detroit Jewels. When you come to analyze them and compare each feature part by part, the value of the DETROIT JEWEL is at once apparent.

Take this Detroit Jewel at Brady Bros. for illustration. Note the general symmetry of the design, the superb construction and the excellent quality of castings and workmanship; next note the generosity of the large top, now remove the key plates which you will find are not only true and even but made for service and durability. Examine the burners which are star shaped to admit plenty of air to the points of combustion. They are so constructed that they do not warp and get out of place from the heat, a common fault with many other makes.

A Money Saver

There are three regular burners, one giant burner and one simmering burner in this stove, so that you can always secure just the degree of heat desired without waste of gas. As you open the oven door you will notice the finely designed wood-burn handle, which you can take hold of at any time without burning your fingers. The oven is exactly square, which is the most economical size in every case. The oven bottom is of cast iron, very durable, with a removable lid in the center, which makes it very convenient for boiling onions, cabbage, etc., as the odor is carried up the chimney.

This is by all odds as perfect a gas range as it is possible to buy. We would like to send you one of these good gas ranges on trial and if after you have used it a short time it is not satisfactory in every respect we will gladly take it back and refund your money.

Don't fail to see our new model with high oven and glass door showing the operation inside the oven.

"IN SHOALS AND BANDS A MORRIS TRAIN."

Whether it be akin to the Mauresco of Spain, the Mauresco of France or the baleful duel dance of Corsica, which was the formal declaration of the deadly vendetta, whether the English Morris dance be a descendant of one or more of these we cannot know. Folk dances, like folk songs, come we know not whence, and go, we know not whither; the knowledge of them floats in the air like gossamer, is blown hither and thither, is caught and held in the branches of the trees, or vanishes over the hills and is lost to reappear perhaps at some distant day, in some far distant place. Nevertheless Morris dancers have long been a familiar feature of rural English festivities. Even in the day of Edward III their grotesque figures were mentioned, but descriptions of them there are none—at most a suggestion in the stained pane of an old church window or a print in a penny history.

But in spite of the fact that history ignores them, Morris men flourish and are extant to this very day. Seek out some quiet English hamlet, overlooked by time and chance, and on a bright May morning you may see them coming—six Morris men, bolshouser, shouting, gay with ribbons, bells on their knees, brandishing their scarves, their fantastic steps and figures symbols of some phase of their daily work. The gay piper is their minstrel and the droll fellow waving the bladder at the end of his long stick is the dandy, who sometimes condescends to collect all in "holy day" array. You can easily dream yourself back into the days of Elizabeth.

GOOD HEALTH

How To Keep It

How To Get It Back

In this column we will discuss Health and Disease and questions of general interest will be answered by responsible members of the regular medical profession. Those not proper for publication will be answered by mail if accompanied by addressed and stamped envelope, provided they do not relate to a disease from which the patient is then suffering. For such diagnosis and advice as to treatment consult your family physician.

Family Contagion.

One of the most serious things connected with tuberculosis is the infection of one member of a family from another—in fact it is a constant observation of physicians and others to see several members of a family sickened and die of this disease, all infected from one case. The poorer the family the closer they are crowded together and the more danger of contagion. A large percentage of the victims of this family contagion are children who are housed up day after day with the sick mother, father, sister or brother. In this way houses become infected. This is one of the pressing problems for health authorities and philanthropists. It is not cruel to take the sick one away into surroundings where there is a chance to get well. Then if the house and all the belongings of the family are thoroughly disinfected the children and other members of the family may escape infection.

Poetry of the Fireside.

One may sometimes wonder whether summer vacations are wisely taken. There are people who sit in closed rooms all winter and as soon as the warm inviting days of summer come they take themselves off to the north, where they again house themselves up in rooms of cottages and hotels, read, play cards and gossip and imagine they are improving their health. Real healthful outdoor life is available in some degree to almost every person. There is no better exercise than walking and few live so far from park or field that they cannot secure fresh air and exercise. Fortune is less important than the knowledge of what is really healthful and the will to get it.

Insects and Disease.

The public cannot have its attention too often called to the role which insects and animals play in carrying disease. We ourselves may be the carriers of disease, especially such diseases as scarlet fever, measles, etc. Pet animals are frequently the carriers of serious diseases and all have read how rats breed does which transmit to man the dreaded Asiatic plague. The mosquitoes carry malaria and yellow fever and the housefly carries typhoid fever, cholera and other infections. The automobile, the motor truck and the trolley are among the great sanitary agencies of the day because they take the horse off the streets. Next to the horse the horse is beloved by man, but without the horse there would be few house flies. Flies feed largely in horse manure. The presence of large numbers of flies mean dirty streets, unclean stables and poorly kept barn yards. It is said that if all manure was scattered on the fields before it is a week old there would practically be no flies. It takes the fly about ten days to develop and if the manure was taken away in a week there would not be time for this development to take place. Clean up your barns and lots.

Abscess.

This condition is the result of infection by various microbe organisms and consists in a localized collection of pus. These are certain well known stages in the formation of an abscess which every one should know something about. Usually there is an injury. This may be very slight, not amounting to more than the prick of a pin, but yet sufficient to admit the germs of infection. Then there is redness and if the abscess is near the surface swelling and pain. If the abscess is near the surface it will get well much quicker if you have your physician open it freely just as soon as you can be sure where it is. But if the abscess is situated deeper in the tissues it may be necessary to wait some time before you can tell exactly how to open it. In the meantime it may be treated by hot, moist applications which assist it in coming to the surface or it may be treated by the application of ice which interferes with the vitality of the germs and often prevents the abscess from fully developing. As soon as it is evident there is matter forming it should be opened freely. Nothing so quickly cures an abscess as free drainage if the opening is made under proper precautions.

Vomiting.

This trouble in either childhood or among grown people may be due to something taken into the stomach which does not agree with it or it may be due to some disease of the stomach, but more frequently it is a symptom of some other disease which is not in or near the stomach, or bowels. Vomiting is common among children at the beginning of the eruptive fevers and in grown people it is a common accompaniment of disease of the kidneys or the brain.

Where the vomiting is simply a symptom of some other disease it does not require treatment in itself, but all treatment should be directed to the disease from which it arises. Without you are certain that you or other members of the family are made to vomit by something taken into the stomach you should seek competent advice to determine at once the cause. In hand fed babies vomiting at once suggests some revision of the dietary. It may be caused by catarrh of the stomach and in an infant the diet which might be well suited to a healthy stomach would require to be changed if the stomach should become irritated. If vomiting recurs several times it is desirable to seek carefully for its cause.

PURSUED INDIANS TO MORGAN COUNTY.

A Story of 1811.

In the last Journal of the Illinois State Historical society a story of Indian warfare in Illinois is retold. An Indian outrage was committed in 1811 and the back-woods men assembled on the frontier and pursued the redskins clear to the head of Indian creek in Morgan county. The story was originally published in the Belleville Advocate of June 25, 1851 and is as follows:

The frontier of the northwest of Illinois Territory, in the year 1811, was the settlements of Wood River, Rattan's prairie, and the localities, which Alton now occupies, in Madison county. The settlement on the Mississippi where Alton is at present, was considered the most dangerous, as the Indians generally descended the river in their canoes—committed depredations—and escaped by land to their towns.

About this time of the year, 1811, June, 1811, A. M. Price and another man were cultivating their corn in a small field situated near the spring in Hunter's Alton, when a small band of Indians way-laid Price and companion, and shot Price, the other man made his escape by mounting his plow horse and leaving the Indians behind. Price was a fine young man and was killed and buried near the spring in Hunter's Alton.

What gives this case of Price more celebrity is that he was the first man killed in Illinois in the late war with Great Britain. The Indians in this year, 1811, were excited to hostility by the English and this was the first case of bloodshed in all the west. It was rumored at the time, that the Indians committed the murder of Price at this place, because some years before some white man had insulted a squaw at this same place, the Indians are guided in their revenge much by localities. This was idle rumor and may not be true; but at all events it was true, as to the murder of Price. The Indian outrage produced a great excitement throughout the country. A great many back-woods men assembled on the frontiers, and a small party, headed by Gen. Samuel Whiteside, gave chase to the Indian murderers, and by the greatest exertions overhauled them at the head of Indian creek in the present county of Morgan, one Indian was killed and the others made their escape. This small band of pursuers were composed of the most daring and energetic Indian fighters of that day, and by following the Indian trail at night, they reached the Indians at the uppermost timber of Indian creek. In the skirmish, most of the Indians escaped. The killing of this Indian at the head waters of this stream has given the name of Indian creek to it, which it may retain forever. The murder of Price gave motion to the ball war, and the frontiers from the Mississippi around by the Vandalia to the mouth of the Ohio were greatly alarmed at their defenceless condition. It was manifest that the Indians were making preparations for hostilities; and it was also manifest that the frontiers were much exposed to the assaults of an enemy. But that native energy and talent, which is pre-eminently possessed by an American back-woods man, gave to the frontiers of Illinois, a defence, that saved the country.

If the papers of Madison county would copy this notice of the death of Price, it would make many a pioneer of old Madison glad to contrast the difference in the county between June, 1811, and June, 1851.

THE PEOPLE ALL.

In Chorus Cried, Give Us Newbro's Herpicide.

This word of late has been in everybody's mouth, and many are wondering what the word signifies, though no one has been found who will deny that NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE does the work well, for the information of thousands of people who like to know all about a good thing, we would say that HERPICIDE means, a destroyer or killer of "Herpes." Now "Herpes" is the family name of a disease caused by various vegetable parasites. A smaller microbe causes dandruff, scabies, and falling hair; this is the microbe that NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE promptly destroys, after which the hair grows, still in fading daylight. Send me in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

The final concert of the Spring Festival will take place next Tuesday evening, May 14, in Westminster church. The program, which is given by the Conservatory orchestra and the Illinois College chorus, assisted by soloists, will commence at 8:15. Among other numbers Schubert's unfinished symphony in B minor will be played by the Orchestra, and Grieg's "Olaf Trygvasson," an unfinished opera, will be sung by the chorus, with Miss Mabel Matthews and Mr. Fred W. Frank as assisting soloists.

The Students' recital last Tuesday evening, May 7, at which Mrs. H. D. Gram, Alma Forsythe and Mac Alsworth all received teacher's certificates in piano, was most successful. Miss Carrie Dunlap assisted with violin.

At Norminster church Friday evening, May 10, was given the most successful faculty recital of the year. A large and very enthusiastic audience was present and encore was demanded to almost every number. Miss Meredith will sing some solos at the School for the Blind next Sunday afternoon, May 12, at 3:45, and duets will also be sung by Miss Oldfield and Mrs. Meredith.

Miss Alma Forsythe will appear in Petersburg in concert next Thursday, May 16, giving half the program.

ILLINOIS COLLEGE NOTES.

Dr. and Mrs. Julian M. Sturtevant were very welcome visitors on the campus during the week. They were guests at the president's house during their sojourn in the city. Dr. Sturtevant was born in the Club house and was graduated from the college with the class of 1854.

The "Old English May Day" will be celebrated on the campus on Wednesday afternoon, May 15. More care than ever has been taken to reproduce exactly the costumes and customs of this day in old England. The procession will start at 3:30, but there will be ample opportunity for those who arrive at 4 o'clock to see all of the folk dances and other performances.

WOMAN'S COLLEGE NOTES.

Mrs. Thomas Nicholson, wife of Rev. Dr. Thomas Nicholson, secretary of the board of education, New York city, was a guest of her daughter, Miss Grace, a teacher in piano. Mr. W. T. Glenn spent Friday with his daughter, Miss Helen. Dr. Joseph Harker is attending general conference at Minneapolis, and expects to be gone about two weeks.

A. C. Metcalf, registrar, was a judge at the oratorical contest, held at Virden Friday evening.

There is much enthusiasm at the college upon the approach of May Day Festival on Tuesday, May 14, and the house is crowded with guests who have come to enjoy this special occasion. The exercises will begin promptly at 6 o'clock. There are a few reserved chairs, which may be secured upon the payment of 10 cents.

Miss Ruth Widenham will give her senior recital in voice next Thursday afternoon, May 16, at 4:15, in Music Hall. All friends and students of the college as well as those interested in music are cordially invited.

Miss Helen Harrison played a violin number at the services at Baptist church last Sunday evening. The college orchestra has been formed and will furnish the music for May Day. They will be assisted by several from out of town.

The recital given Friday afternoon at 4:15 in music hall by Miss Jeannette Powell was largely attended. She read "The Dawn of a Tomorrow," by Francis Hodgson Burnett. Her work along this line showed decided talent.

Miss Sidney Newcomb gave her senior luncheon last Monday evening. Only a limited number of guests were present.

Miss Edna Allison gave her senior dinner Friday evening, which was very attractive the color scheme of red being used throughout the course.

The library has received, the past week from Judge Callahan, one of the trustees, his book "Laws of the Bible," and from Laura E. Richards, "Two Noble Lives," which is her biography of Samuel Gridley Howe and Julia Ward Howe, her parents.

A Permanent Cure For Chronic Constipation

Although those may dispute it who have not tried it, yet thousands of others, who speak from personal experience, assert that there is a permanent cure for chronic constipation. Some testify they were cured for as little as fifty cents, years ago, and that the trouble never came back on them, while others admit they took several bottles before a steady cure was brought about. The remedy referred to is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It has been on the market for over a quarter of a century and has been popularized on its merits, by one person telling another. The fact that its strongest supporters are women and elderly people—the ones most persistently constipated—makes it certain that the claims regarding it as a permanent cure for constipation have not been exaggerated. It is not violent like cathartic pills, salts or waters, but operates gently, without griping and without shock to the system. It contains tonic properties that strengthen the stomach and bowel muscles so that in time medicines of all kinds can be dispensed with and nature is again solely relied on. Among the legions who testify to these facts are Elizabeth Grigg, Coffeen, Ill., and C. P. Swanson, 1109 18th Ave., Rockford, Ill., and they always have a bottle of it in the house, for it is a reliable laxative for all the family from infancy to old age. Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 405 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

Grain Letter.

Chicago, May 11.—Wheat—Heavy cash sales for shipment from Chicago have been the most interesting and most bullish development of the past few days. According to what appear to be well founded reports, close to a million and a half wheat has been sold from Chicago to outside mills. In view of the crop situation through territory tributary to Chicago, this is bullish in the extreme. July certain to be an old crop. Filling contract will depend principally on supplies of soft wheat, which will be scarce and which will command a fancy price. Conditions command the famous "Burrhead" year are likely to prevail. It will be remembered that old soft wheat sold above $1.50 before the new crop was available. Reports of decreased spring wheat area persists with a short crop of winter wheat a certainty and a short crop of spring wheat a possibility, the situation is a very strong one. In view of the big old crop sharp advances are not unlikely. Take advantage of them to invest in July and Sept.

Corn—Wet weather had a moderate firming effect, but prices were not maintained well. Pit conditions in May make this July apart from general market conditions. May shorts are "in bad." Weather conditions and small country elevator stocks prevent delivery. Shorts should cover and avoid further loss. July and later months are different. Farm work will be completed even in spite of rains in another thirty to forty days. Sales to arrive forward shipment have been heavy. The pit offers the only satisfactory market for such sales. Hedgers in the July have been heavy. Buying purely speculative. There is some talk here that a full acreage of corn will be prevented by wet weather, but it is too early for this to be a specific consideration. The weather has stopped oats seeding and more area will go to corn. There are prospects of a record breaking corn area. The sentimental effect will be very bullish. Good pastures and high price already entail consumption. Cash demand will be slack. The pit must bear the burden of the heavy movement to come. We strongly favor sales of July at present price and on any advance.

Oats—Further realizing sales were a factor. Crop news is mixed. Wet weather has finished oats seeding. The area is short, but a question, the season late, oats will mature under unfavorable conditions. The possibility of a large and satisfactory crop is extremely remote. Harvest will be delayed that July will be an old crop delivery. Hay shortage has led to heavy oats consumption and old supplies will be practically exhausted in July with no new oats available in quantity until August. Spot oats now command a large premium over July. There is little reason to anticipate a decline in spot oats. July must advance to the cash level. There will be urgent need for new oats as soon as available and we anticipate a high price for them. September will be strongly influenced. We look for high prices this summer. We firmly believe that July and September oats at present price are an excellent investment which prove of profitable character.

$20000 Worth of Newest Spring WEARING APPAREL and MILLINERY FOR $5,000

That's what our Mr. Olian accomplished on his trip to New York city last week. You'll wonder how it could be done. Ordinarily it seems impossible. But this season has been the worst in years. In New York city they had 27 days of rain in the month of April. Can you imagine what a terrible loss it meant to manufacturers? The large department stores in New York city and elsewhere who placed their orders cancelled them because of lack of trade and gloomy weather. On former trips East, where a manufacturer had a big close out, they would set their price, but on this occasion they would ask "How much will you give?" Mr. Olian would immediately snap back some ridiculous offer and quick as lightning came "They're yours."
